Sustainability and Responsibility
Environmental awareness and sustainable action are integral parts of our club's strategy. Our goal is not only to reduce CO_2 emissions but also to use energy more efficiently, minimize waste, and limit the use of chemicals wherever possible. Equally important to us is our social commitment we aim to ensure that both our community and the local population benefit from our activities.
To consistently achieve and further develop our environmental and sustainability objectives, we are regularly certified according to recognized external standards.
With this report, we would like to provide all stakeholders with a transparent overview of our initiatives and the progress we have made in recent years.

Management and sustainability

Our Commitment to Sustainability at Aldiana Fuerteventura

At Aldiana Fuerteventura, sustainability is a core principle of our corporate responsibility. We recognize the significant impact we have on the environment, local economies, education, and the health and well-being of our employees. Our goal is to minimize our environmental footprint today and in the future while supporting local communities and ensuring the best possible experience for our guests. To achieve this, we focus on key priorities such as improving water and energy efficiency, reducing waste, recycling valuable materials, raising awareness among guests and partners, sourcing responsibly, and encouraging voluntary initiatives.

Our approach to sustainability is guided by six principles: avoid, reduce, recycle, enhance, communicate, and understand. Clear objectives are set, actions are planned and tracked throughout the year, and results are reviewed annually to inform new goals and initiatives.

Our Code of Conduct underscores our commitment to climate protection and includes training for employees to increase environmental awareness. Central to our efforts are supporting employee development, ensuring good working conditions, and contributing to the sustainable growth of our locations.

Our sustainability reporting is organized around three main areas: environmental responsibility, community support, and local social engagement.

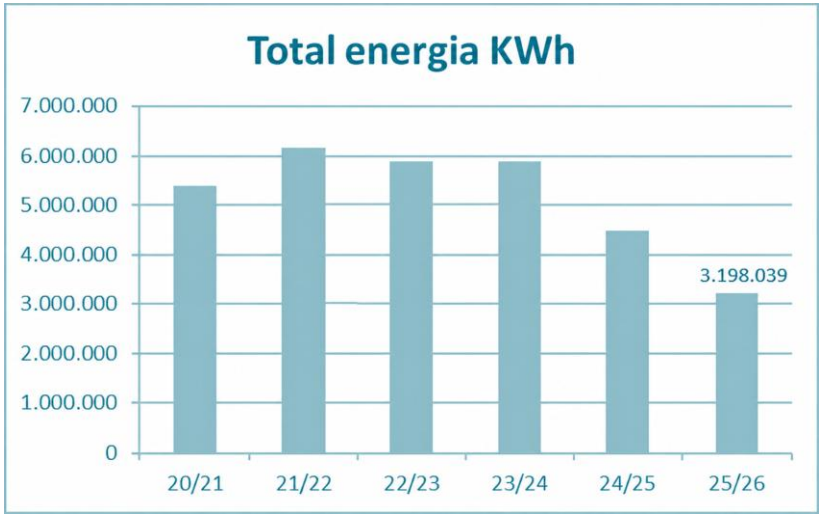

Energy

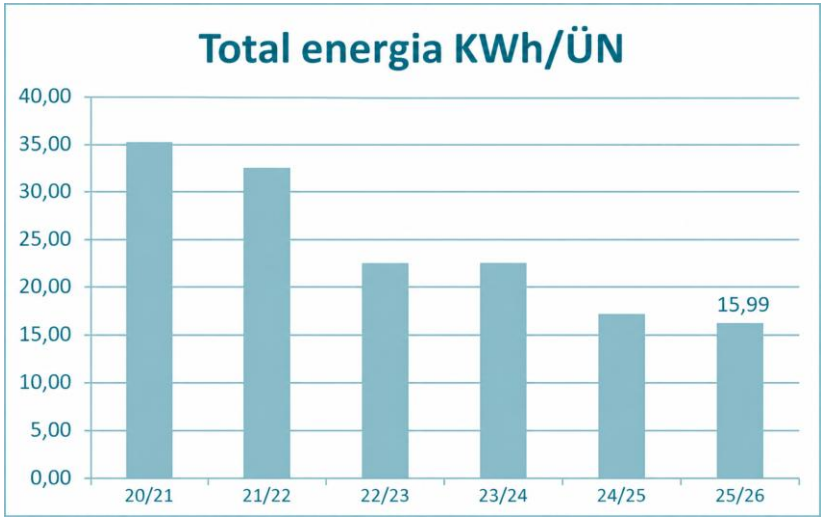

Our club operates a range of facilities that require energy, including lighting, swimming pools, climate control systems, and kitchens. To minimize unnecessary energy use, we have introduced several efficiency measures, such as LED lighting, key card systems in guest rooms, motion and outdoor light sensors, regular infrastructure maintenance, and daily monitoring of energy consumption.

In the coming years, a complete renovation of the resort complex is planned. As part of this, we will develop a comprehensive Energy Master Plan to implement the most efficient and sustainable energy solutions currently available. One of the main objectives of this plan is to phase out the use of solid fuels.

Our electrical systems are intelligently managed according to occupancy levels. This means that even during peak periods, the energy consumption per guest per day is significantly optimized. Additionally, we are exploring ways to source electricity locally from renewable sources on the island.

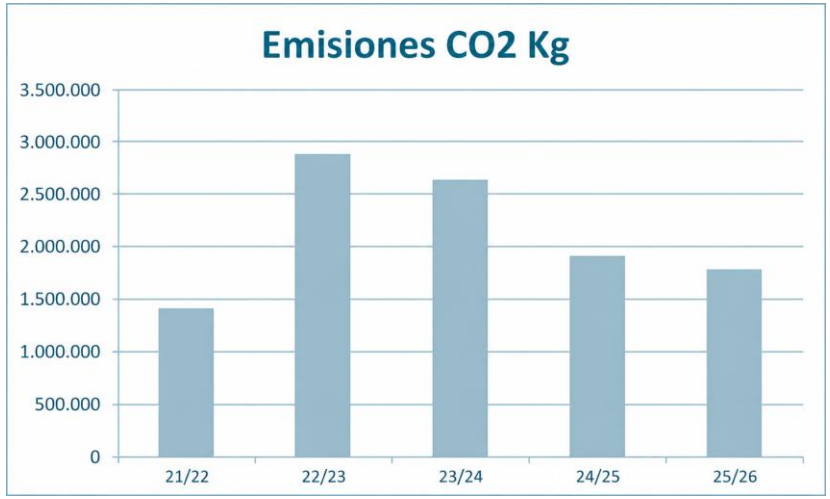

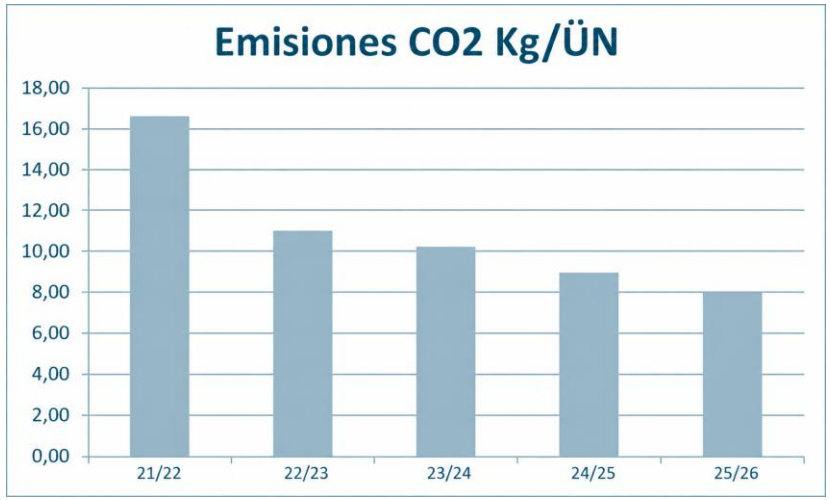

In the 2025/26 reporting year, we significantly reduced our energy consumption compared to previous years through continuous efficiency improvements and optimized energy management. Since achieving Travelife certification in 2024, we have made measurable progress in reducing our environmental impact while maintaining a high standard of guest comfort.

EMISSION CO2

Our on-site laundry operations have been limited to essentials such as staff uniforms, bathrobes, and towels. This has reduced machine usage and allowed us to remove unnecessary equipment. All other hotel laundry is now professionally handled at a centralized facility on the island. We have developed a well-organized circulation system for emissions, optimizing both the routes and the quantities transported.

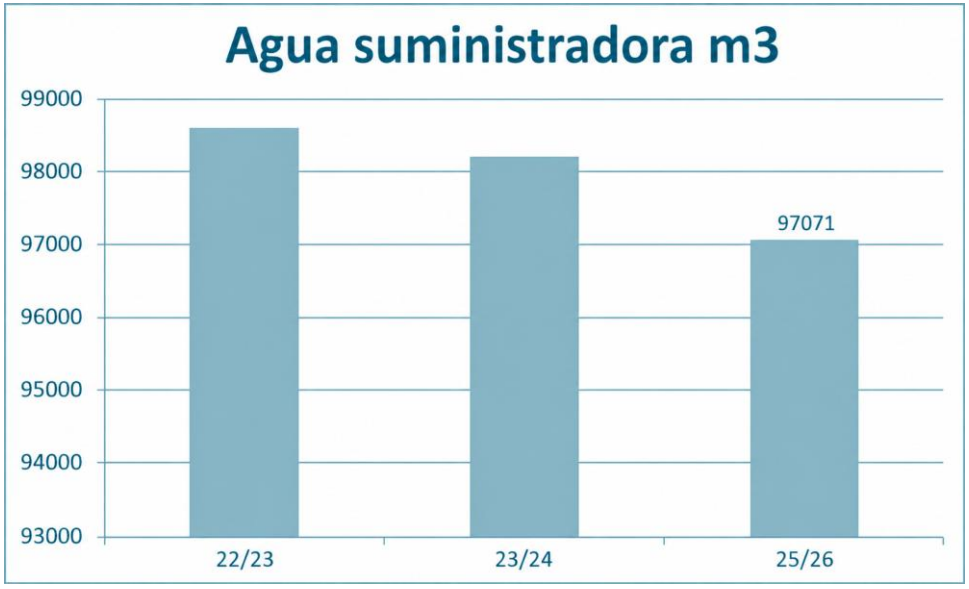

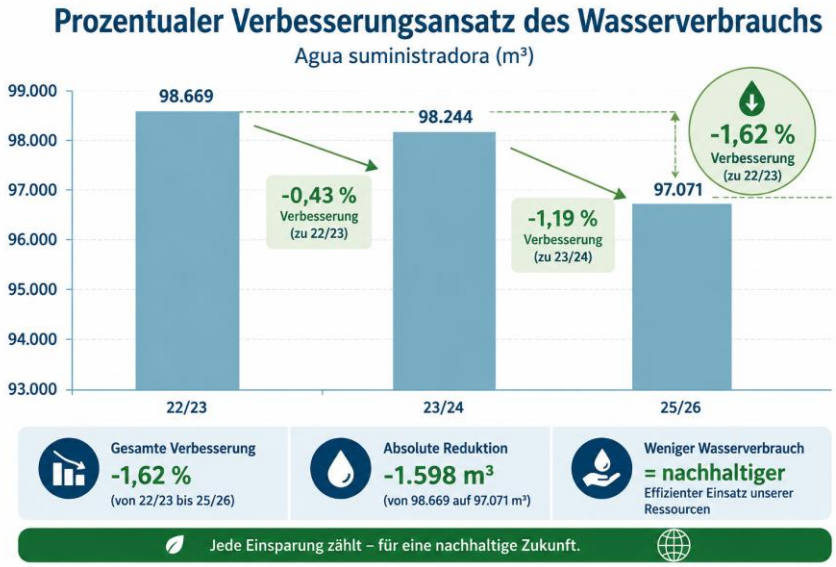

Water

In addition to conserving energy, Aldiana Fuerteventura places great emphasis on reducing water consumption.
All irrigation water at our club is sourced from the municipal treatment plant. By equipping taps and toilets with flow restrictors, ensuring regular maintenance of our facilities, and monitoring water usage daily, Aldiana prevents unnecessary water loss.
As part of our ongoing renovation efforts, Aldiana is exploring modern solutions to further reduce water consumption and strengthen our commitment to sustainability.

Our Hotel in comparison

Compared with the average resource consumption of similar all-inclusive resorts, Aldiana Fuerteventura demonstrates significantly lower consumption across key sustainability indicators. Continuous investments in energy efficiency, water conservation, and optimized technical systems have resulted in substantial reductions in electricity, water, heating oil consumption, and CO_2 emissions. These achievements underline our commitment to responsible resource management and continuous environmental improvement while maintaining a high-quality guest experience.

23/24	25/26

Heating oil consumption has been significantly reduced through continuous energy efficiency measures and optimized operational processes. Compared to 2023/24, consumption has decreased considerably, demonstrating our commitment to reducing fossil fuel use and lowering greenhouse gas emissions. Energy consumption is monitored regularly throughout the year, and performance is reviewed as part of our ongoing environmental management process..

Social Commitment

Community support and local partnerships continue to play an important role in our sustainability efforts. Our hotel maintains a long-standing partnership with the local Canarian wrestling club Saladar de Jandía, based in Morro Jable. Throughout the year, we supported the club by providing food, beverages, reusable water bottles, and sports equipment.We are equally proud to support the local dance group Datana Academy, which performs regularly on our pool stage during evening shows. The proceeds from their performances help finance their participation in international competitions in Orlando, where they represent Spain and the Canary Islands. The academy once again achieved outstanding results, and we are delighted to contribute to the success of these talented young dancers.We also continued to support Dr. Carola Simón's charitable project for children with cancer. Thanks to the generosity of our guests, we were once again able to raise approximately €3,500 through donations.

We condemn any form of child exploitation, as it represents a serious violation of children's rights and integrity. We do not employ children and report any suspicious activities involving children immediately to the local authorities.
A large part of our employees has already received training on child protection. These sessions help them to recognize harmful actions, respond appropriately, and report any concerns to the management. We continue to expand these trainings regularly, as child protection remains an essential part of our human rights commitment.
We also reserve the right to terminate any cooperation with individuals or companies involved in any form of child exploitation.

Social Commitment

As part of our activities throughout the year, we celebrated International Housekeeping Day to recognize the invaluable contribution of our housekeeping team. The day highlighted the importance of cleanliness, hygiene, hospitality, and, above all, appreciation, respect, and team spirit. On this occasion, guestrooms were cleaned only upon guests' explicit request. Housekeeping provided fresh towels and toilet paper when needed, encouraging guests to reflect on whether daily room cleaning is always necessary and promoting a more conscious use of resources. To thank our housekeeping employees for their dedication and hard work, they were invited to enjoy a wellness day including lunch. In addition, guests were invited to leave personal messages of appreciation for the housekeeping team on the back of the information card. This initiative not only recognized the outstanding efforts of our employees but also raised awareness of sustainable practices among our guests.

Together for the Protection of Fuerteventura's Natural Environment

The Aldiana Club Fuerteventura is located in an exceptional natural setting in the south of the island, directly on the coast of Jandía. This unique location comes with a special responsibility to protect the local environment and its biodiversity. As part of our sustainability commitment, we cooperate with NABU (Nature and Biodiversity Conservation Union). Through professional exchange and collaboration, we aim to continuously strengthen our environmental and nature conservation efforts while raising awareness among our guests and employees about Fuerteventura's sensitive ecosystems. Our shared goal is to combine memorable holiday experiences with responsible tourism. The careful use of natural resources, the protection of valuable habitats, and greater awareness of the island's unique flora and fauna are at the heart of this commitment. In this way, we aim to contribute to preserving the remarkable natural environment of Jandía so that it can be experienced and appreciated by future generations.

Supporting Sustainable Communities

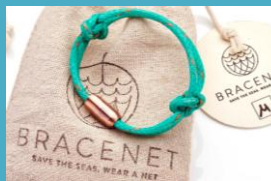

DERTOUR

As part of the DERTOUR Group, Aldiana Club Fuerteventura supports the mission of the DERTOUR Foundation, which believes that tourism can be a positive force for people, nature, and local communities. Since its establishment in 2014, the Foundation has supported more than 120 projects in 31 countries, focusing on education and vocational training, environmental conservation, biodiversity, and animal welfare. The Foundation's projects are designed to create long-term benefits by empowering local communities, improving access to education and employment, protecting natural habitats, and preserving cultural heritage. Through strong partnerships with local organisations, each initiative aims to create lasting positive impacts that continue well beyond the duration of the individual project. In 2025, the DERTOUR Foundation further expanded its commitment to community-based tourism in cooperation with Planeterra. These projects help local communities develop authentic tourism experiences that create fair income opportunities, preserve cultural traditions, and protect natural ecosystems, demonstrating how responsible tourism can directly benefit destinations and their residents

Bracenet – Turning Ocean Waste into New Opportunities

At Aldiana Club Fuerteventura, we support sustainable initiatives such as Bracenet, a company that transforms discarded fishing nets recovered from the ocean into unique, handmade products. By giving these so-called ghost nets a new purpose, Bracenet helps reduce marine pollution and protect marine life. This initiative reflects our commitment to environmental responsibility and to preserving the natural beauty of our oceans for future generations.

Certificaciones

The internationally recognized Travelife Quality Seal assesses an organization's overall sustainability performance. To achieve this certification, companies must implement effective sustainability practices that cover both environmental and social responsibility.
